Interesting Theatre Party.
Colonel J. Rice Smith, of Savannah, Ga., who has been spending the heated term near this city, was host on Friday at one of the most interesting functions of the late summer season, when he entertained twenty-four guests at luncheon at the Richmond Hotel and a theatre party given for the matinee at the Lyric. The guests were seated at one long table, arranged in the glittering dining-room of the Richmond for luncheon, and slender vases of red roses and sprays formed effective decorations.

At the White.
Mrs. James H. Preston, Mrs. William C. Worthington and Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, who are at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs, were among those entertaining the past week at picnic luncheons and suppers, which were very delightful and informal affairs.

Mr. Anderson entertained a large company of young people, taking his guests in motor cars to Oak Grove, at falling Springs, for luncheon. From that place they motored to Barton Lodge, at Virginia Hot Springs, where they were the guests of W. Barton French and Miss Charles French at a dance, and on Friday evening they dined and spent the night at the Homestead. The party, which was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, included Miss Hilda French, Miss Alice W. Preston, Miss Katharine Ellis, Miss Margaret Grant, Miss Sara Hamilton, of Baltimore; Colonel Joe Lane Stern, of Richmond; Thomas B. Paine, King Stone, Leroy Percy, Ralph Baran, James Ragan, Floyd McCrae and William Lewis.

ACCIDENTS SERVE TO SCARE PEOPLE

Hundreds Visit Scene of Recent Wreck on C. & O.—High School Soon Open.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Arvonia, Va., August 31.—This community is still much worked up over the disastrous wreck which occurred on the Buckingham Branch of Chesapeake and Ohio last Tuesday. Hundreds from this section and New Canton and Breunig visited the wreck, either before the injured were removed or later on. It is said that nothing comment upon the occurrence. This, with another accident to the Chesapeake and Ohio train near Dillwyn that night, has caused a great deal of frighten the people of this section, and walking to Breunig from nearby sections rather than going on the branch line.

Judge Rhea and his assistants visited the Buckingham branch on Thursday, and the party went entirely over the line, together with Chesapeake and Ohio officials. It is said that nothing tangible could be had from any of the party as to what they thought of the condition of the line. The high schools of Buckingham County will open on September 15. The school of the Dillwyn branch, Mr. Warwick, of Monterey, has been selected for the Buckingham High School, but as yet the district board has not settled the matter. The principalship of the Arvonia High School, about fifty teachers have been registered with the division superintendent and had slips issued to them according to law. It is said that nothing of the regular teaching force of the county. The others will be required to register their names and have their names indorsed before they can teach in the county or before clerks can even contract with them. Colored teachers are still scarce, though the school officials are loath to contract with emergency teachers under any conditions.

As a result of the most reasonable summer in twenty years, crops in this section are better than was ever known before. The corn and tobacco crops are now in the best of condition, and will be ripe and with perfection even if no more rain falls on them. Corn is remarkably early in the season, and yield promising from 50 to 100 per cent more than usual. Late hay is very fine, and pastures furnish better grass.

HERE IS THE $1,200 RED LETTER DAY OF YOUR LIFE

Unless The Times-Dispatch's Game, Cannot Arouse a Spark of Ambition in You.

Do you realize that your ingenuity is worth $200 in cash?

Yes, your ingenuity!

Perhaps you have seen something about this unique Bookers' Contest Game—glanced at a picture, it may be. Then glanced away again.

Well, do not glance away for one-half a minute, and then you'll know how to win $300 by playing a game. If you don't like the game you may leave it alone, but if you do, you may win $300. If you do like it you can find out right in this story, how to start playing it now.

The Times-Dispatch doesn't expect that you know any of the titles in the seventy-seven pictures represent. The Times-Dispatch has issued a catalogue, containing the titles, arranged in alphabetical order. It contains 5,000 titles of the seventy-seven pictures represent. The Times-Dispatch guarantees this.

Suppose that a picture, for example, shows a man walking along a country road. Suppose also that you haven't any idea as to what book title the picture can represent.

Well, you do not have to have any such advance knowledge.

Looking at that picture it occurs to you that it might have been drawn to represent some such title as "In the Middle of the Road," "Out in the Country," or "Far From the Crowd," or "Walking Alone."

You don't know, of course, whether or not there are any such book titles. But you do know that the correct title to that picture is in the catalogue, and that if one of the possible titles you have made up is the correct title, that it will be in the catalogue.

So you open your catalogue and turning to the titles beginning with the letter "M," look to see if there is such a title as "In the Middle of the Road." And you turn to the titles beginning with the letter "O," and look for "Out in the Country." And you turn to the titles beginning with the letter "F," and look for "Far From the Crowd." And you turn to the titles beginning with the letter "W," and look for "Walking Alone."

Keep at it, use your catalogue and your natural shrewdness, and you will win.

And remember: With each catalogue this newspaper gives seven certificates, redeemable at any time for the first thirty-five pictures. To-day No. 37 appears, so if you clip out to-day's picture, you will be getting the balance of the pictures as they appear. You will secure the entire series of seventy-seven pictures. Picture No. 36 you may secure at the regular price of the paper per copy.

Now, if you have a picture. Can you tell what book title it represents? You could find out, if you used a catalogue, and your ingenuity!

SIR ALAN JOHNSTONE GETS NO PROMOTION

Brother-in-Law of Gifford Pinchot Continues as British Minister at The Hague.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FOUTENAY.

SIR ALAN JOHNSTONE, married to the sister of Gifford Pinchot, and who has been for some time past again been passed over in the matter of promotion to an embassy, and while Sir Maurice de Bunsen has been appointed to succeed Sir Fairfax Young as ambassador at Vienna, Sir Arthur Hardinge has been promoted vacant embassy at Lisbon to the post of minister at Madrid.

Sir Maurice de Bunsen began his diplomatic career in the United States as an attaché at Washington, in 1878, and, while of German origin, may be said to owe the start of the fortunes of his house to America.

The first Baron, Christian Charles Maurice, was a young student of humble birth at the University of Bonn, when, by the most straitened circumstances, he was selected to serve as private tutor to William B. Astor, son of that John Jacob Astor who laid the foundation of the great wealth of his family. The couple wandered all over Europe together, visited together the Schenckenhau, and Niebuhr, and when finally young Astor returned to New York, Bunsen was provided for in a financial sense and in the most generous fashion for the remainder of his days, and was able afterwards to marry at Rome an English girl, a Miss Waddington, aunt of the French statesman and foreign minister of that name, whose American widow, daughter of President King, of Columbia University, New York, is a frequent visitor to America.

At Rome Christian Bunsen became very intimate with the scholarly Prussian envoy, Niebuhr, who secured his appointment as secretary of his legation, and, in 1881, was promoted to the post of Prussian minister plenipotentiary in London and ennobled.

His sons, George and Ernest von Bunsen, both distinguished themselves by their pronounced liberal views, which gave much offense to Prince Bismarck, that he virtually drove them from German official life. Indeed, Ernest von Bunsen resigned his position in the German army and diplomatic service, and established himself in England, where he married Miss Elizabeth Gurney, a daughter of the famous old Norfolkshire house of that name. He returned to Germany to take care of the sick and wounded in the war of 1870, for which service old Emperor William insisted upon appointing him to be one of his chamberlains.

This did not, however, prevent Ernest von Bunsen from having his son brought up as an Englishman, and, after graduating from the University of Cambridge, he entered the British diplomatic service, where his promotion was rapid. He is married to Miss Bertha Corry, a relative of the late Lord Rowton, and through her is in possession of a very comfortable fortune. He has represented Great Britain at Madrid for the last seven years with considerable success, and was one of the plenipotentiaries at the international congress of Algiers, concerning Morocco. Moreover, he played an important role as mediator, in bringing about a settlement of the serious differences between France and Spain on the subject of their respective spheres in Morocco.

With regard to Sir Arthur Hardinge, the new British ambassador at Madrid, he is one of Lord Cromer's men, in this sense, that he learned diplomacy
